IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

Re: Voluntary Product Recall of Riveted Cutting Blades in Certain Cuisinart® Food Processors

Dear Consumer:

Conair Consumer Products ULC (Cuisinart), in cooperation with Health Canada, is conducting a voluntary recall of riveted cutting blades in certain Model and Series Numbers of Cuisinart® Food Processors listed below.

Cuisinart is instituting this voluntary recall because in rare circumstances cracks may be found in riveted blades from use of the food processor over time, which could on rare occasion lead to a portion of the blade to detach.

The recall applies only to the riveted blades of specific Cuisinart food processors sold in the Canadian marketplace since 1996.

To identify the relevant model numbers, please check for any models as noted below. Model numbers are located on the bottom of the food processor or on the front panel of the instruction booklet.

Model Number: Riveted Blade for Food Processor that begin with the following:

CFP-11, DFP-11, DFP-14, DFP-7

DLC-10, DLC-2007, DLC-2009, DLC-2011, DLC-2014, DLC-5, DLC-7, DLC-8, DLC-XP

EV-10, EV-11, EV-7, MP-14

If there are no Rivets on your blade, your Food Processor blade is NOT involved in this recall. You may continue to use your Food Processor blade.

If you have a Food Processor that is one of the Models listed above, and it contains a riveted blade, please contact Cuisinart's customer service team for a free replacement blade. Consumers should not return the Food Processors to the retailer.
